OUR SALEM LETTER

Oregon State Fair—Second Day.

SALEM, Oct. 17, 1866.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Every department of the Fair, to-day, is much improved over yesterday. Articles for exhibition have been arriving and being put up during the whole day and yet not everything is prepared for exhibition.

HOUSEHOLD MACHINES.

The southern wings of the Pavilion are occupied mostly by sewing machines and numerous articles manufactured thereon. The display of plain and fancy needlework, embroidery, etc., is very fine. The operators are obliging enough to explain the manner of doing all the various styles of work, descanting at the same time upon the superiority of the Wheeler & Wilson, the Grover & Baker, or the Florence as the case may be, to a constant succession of visitors, from morning till night. Patience is beautifully illustrated in this department. Near by is one of Larribe's patent knitting machines which does all sorts of socks, drawers, &c., considerably faster than a dozen of the oldest women in the State. This keeps a constant crowd of interested spectators, all anxious to see just how the "thing" does it. In a corner hard by are two washing machines, the "Economy" and another which is nameless so far as this deponent knoweth. It is a sort of double-geared arrangement of the old pounding barrel and pestle, modified or crossed with the quartz-mill principle. The pestles, of which there are four, are raised one after another in the same manner as the old style quartz-crushers, and dropped into a revolving tub which contains the clothes to be done. I was not impressed so favorably with it as by the "Economy," which is simpler and less liable to get out of repair. This machine, it is stated, will wash the dirtiest of clothes as clean and white as driven snow, while it will not tear the finest laces.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

I am pleased to be able to notice an Oregon made reaper, manufactured by Mr. S. A. Nickerson, of Lebanon, Linn county. He calls it the "Oregon giant," and it is a giant, cutting a swath of ten clear feet. The reaper goes before the team—four horses—obviating the necessity of cutting a preparatory swath with a cradle. The height of the clip is regulated by a lever, easily worked by the driver, who also steers the machine by a sort of helm-like arrangement. There are twenty-four of these machines now in Oregon. They cost about $300 each. The average cutting capacity is from 15 to 20 acres per day.

Another Oregon-made machine is Van Wagner's patent fanning-mill—made for chaffing, for separating large grains from the small and for ridding the grain from cockle and other noxious seeds. I had no means of seeing a test made, but should judge from an examination of the various arrangements that the mill is all it claims to be. It is made at Salem.

A revolving harrow—whether patented or not, I could not learn—attracted considerable attention. It is four-sided, diamond-shaped, each side being a shaft set with rows of teeth and is designed, evidently, to not only bury the seed but to dig up and leave the ground loose. I could find no one who seemed to be anxious to convince me of its superior merits, so I took that matter under advisement and went away to examine Hutchinson's patent cider mill and press combined. This is more a family machine than anything else, but is really a handy thing to have either in a family or in the barn. The entire mill and press costs $30, with all the fixtures. Daniels' patent straw-cutter struck me as being liable to work hard on account of the knives cutting square down upon the straw. The feeding cylinder, however, is constructed so as to distribute the straw evenly which may obviate that difficulty to some extent. There are some other implements and machines which I will notice another day.

STOCK PARADE.

The parade of entered horses and cattle was very fair in respect of numbers, and of horses in particular, there was a respectable representation of nearly all styles, from the ordinary farm horse up to a No 1 Oregon stallion and racer. In advance of the awards of premiums by the proper committees it is impossible to make any just remarks concerning them except in a general way. There were perhaps forty or fifty horses, some under saddle, others led, and others, still, driven to carriage or sulky. Wm. Coyle, of Benton county, drove a span of fine black mares of the Morgan stock. Mr. Louis Griffith drove to a sulky a very fine Waterloo filly, three years old, which drew considerable notice. There were several other fine horses, but it was impossible to-day, to learn the names of owners.

So far as I could learn, the cattle paraded were owned by Thomas Cross, of Salem, Samuel Brown of French Prairie and Ab. Frazier of Mill Creek. Each exhibited some very fine animals—cows, steers and calves that would do honor to any State. Mr. Cross' "Oregon Baby," a steer seven years old, attracted more attention than any other. He weighed, to-day, exactly 3,000 lbs and is a monster in size, though well proportioned.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTIONS.

In the old Pavilion, the display, to-day, of farm and garden produce, though not extensive, showed some very superior specimens. Of these I will notice, in this letter, only specimens of flax raised in Marion county by Messrs. Wm P. Pugh, E. L. Gleason and J. L. White for C. M. Cartwright, of Salem. That raised by Mr. Pugh was for lint. It is fine in stalk, tall and clothed with a fibre as tough and fine as any I ever saw. Mr. Cartwright informed me that he is satisfied from experiments that it can be worked into fabrics as fine as silk. The yield of seed on Mr. Pugh's crop averages from 12 to 15 bushels per acre. Mr. White's crop was raised more particularly for seed, and averaged 25 bushels per acre. On this the fibre is plentiful but coarse. Mr. Gleason's crop was also raised for seed, and averaged 23 bushels per acre. To show the bountiful increase of this crop, I may mention that one seed planted by Mr. Gleason, produced 280 bolls each, containing an average of ten seeds.

WEDNESDAY'S RACES.

The first race to-day was for Oregon bred colts and fillies, two years old, one mile, to rule—running for a premium of $50. J. G. Basket entered his filly, "Red Morocco;" A. Frazier entered his colt, "Umatilla Chief," and James Luce entered his colt "Jerry Lancaster." The heat and premium was won by "Red Morocco" in 2:03.

The second race was a trotting match, premium $50, for Oregon bred colts and fillies, four years old, mile heats, 2 in 3, to harness and rule. Mr. Dimick, of Salem, entered a brown Paul Jones colt. Mr. Colburn Barrell entered the Paul Jones colt, "Brownlow." The first heat, and the race were won by Brownlow in 4:06, Dimick's colt being distanced. Brownlow did rather slow work and Dimick's colt was so slow as to be greeted with hoots from the crowd on coming down the home-stretch.

The third race was a trotting match free for all stallions, mile heats, 2 in 3, to harness and rule—premium $75. Durbin entered "Emigrant." There being no other entry, he went alone in 3:14 and 3:05.

After this, there was a trotting match between Loryea's "Gen. Banks," Parish's "Honest George," and Dennison's "Nellie," mile heats, 2 in 3, to harness and rule, for a purse of $150. The race summed up as follows:

FIRST HEAT.

Gen. Banks	1
Nellie	2
Honest George	3
Time, 3:06. Heat for Gen. Banks.

SECOND HEAT.

Gen. Banks	3
Nellie	1
Honest George	2
Time, 2:50.

THIRD HEAT.

Gen. Banks	1
Nellie	2
Honest George	3
Time, 3:00.

The first heat was well contested by "Banks" and "Nellie," both doing honest trotting. The second was an even or heat between the three, "George" making better speed than before. On the third heat, "George" and "Nellie," did considerable running.

NUMBER OF VISITORS.

An approximate calculation at noon, elicited the opinion that the number of visitors to-day was something less than on the second day of last year. However, the attendance was larger than had been really expected. There were a good many fresh arrivals during the afternoon, and at the close, there were probably more people on the ground than on any second day since the organization of the Fair, with the exception of two years ago when the military parade and Sanitary Fair were added to the attractions.

ARREST OF MAT. BLEDSOE.—The Sentinel of Jacksonville furnishes the subjoined account of the arrest of this notorious convict:

On Monday night last, the 8th inst., it became known to Marshal Banks and Deputy Sheriff Reams that Mat. Bledsoe, one of the escaped convicts from Salem, was in town, and also that he was going out on the stage to Yreka the next morning. Banks and Reams consulted as to the best mode of arresting the criminal, and it was decided that Ashland would be the most favorable point for their enterprise. The time when the stage passengers were at breakfast. They accordingly procured a buggy and started from town about 2 o'clock in the morning. At Phoenix they turned off the main stage road so as not to arouse the curiosity of the hostler at the way-station. When at Ashland, the landlord was acquainted with their errand and instructed to bring the officers word as to the manner the guests were seated at the breakfast table, while they retired into the second story of the building to watch Bledsoe as he got out of the stage. When seated at breakfast the officers stepped into the dining room, when the first words that gave intimation of danger to the criminal was "Bledsoe, throw your hands up," and he turned his head only to see the muzzle of a shotgun leveled directly at his head by Marshal Banks, while in less time than we write, Deputy Sheriff Reams had his hands behind him, bound by a pair of patent hand cuffs. He was then led into the barroom where he fainted and was carried to the lounge, but soon recovered and went back and ate a hearty breakfast. The party after breakfast came to Jacksonville, and on Wednesday morning Marshal Banks started with the prisoner for Salem.

Bledsoe conversed quite freely of his escape and trials for a few days afterwards. The escape of the convicts as related by him and the published account does not differ in the main. He says that the plot to escape had been on foot for about four weeks, but that he never gave his consent to it until the Sunday before they broke out on Monday. After breaking through the guards, and while running, to the cover of the brush, he was shot at the second fire in the left thigh. The third shot killed Wright. The distance from the prison gate to the brush was about 350 yards. He eluded Warden Alden by various turns and zigzags, and noticing that his leg was bleeding very badly, he stopped and bound it up with a piece of cloth from the leg of his trowsers. He got about four miles from town that night and stopped, not being able to walk. He heard the alarm bells very distinctly, and one man rode within twenty feet of him. He gives that man's name as Kinney. When the moon had gone down he crawled to a farm house and got a piece of a scythe which had been made into a corn cutting knife. With this he cut himself a crutch in the shape of a forked stick. He also got some green apples and potatoes at this house, and went on until he found a place where he thought it would be safe to pass the day; but his consternation was great when in the morning he saw two wood choppers take their station for the day's labor within a hundred yards of his hiding place. He dare not move, and he lay all day and watched the laborers home at night, which was in a small cabin close by, where they cooked their supper and lay down to sleep, one of them putting his trowsers under his head for a pillow. These our criminal hero stole, and left his own one-legged penitentiary pants instead.

After this night's adventure he refused to disclose any more of his proceedings, except at every opportunity he bathed his wound with cold water, so that when he was arrested it was almost well. He refused to tell how he got here in town. He regrets very much that after going through as much suffering as he has, that, as he expresses himself, he "should here act the fool and get caught."

A CONSERVATIVE CONVERT BEGINNING TO BACKSLIDE.—The Springfield (Mass.) Republican, which claims to have been consistent throughout in its course, formally abandons both Johnson and Beecher, while expressing its opinion that the theory of a speedy admission of the Southern States is, in the abstract right. It says:

There is no longer avail, therefore, in pressing such views as those so clearly stated and ably defended by Beecher. The conduct of the President has destroyed both his party and his policy in the North. The one cannot be as respectable or as formidable as promised, or as was desirable, even as a balance in our political contests, and the other cannot hope for success. Both are at present going down hill very rapidly, and by the blunders and wickedness of the President and some of the Southern people, arousing alarm and anxiety throughout the North, the Republican-Union party rise above the mistakes of its own leadership, and mounts to a greater compactness and strength than ever before. This instinct of loyalty and safety, taking refuge in the organization that led the country through the war, and upon whose intelligent moral elements the country rightly feels that it can rest securely, is the significant and cheering sign of the times. The President and the South, by their violent measure and manners, force all loyalists of the North, with but few exceptions, to rally around the Republican banner, to accept the constitutional amendment proposed by congress as the issue of the present campaign, if not a final necessity of reconstruction, and to make such a demonstration of firmness in demanding that not only slavery and secession, but all their corollaries and necessities, shall be surrendered, before real peace and restoration can be granted, as shall command respect and force acquiescence.

GOVERNOR HAMILTON.—At the late reception of the Southern loyalists in Trenton (N. J.), Governor Hamilton, of Texas, said:

In Texas they elected men for Congress who they knew could not take the oath. He was for the second time an exile, though, when he was Military Governor, they had crowded up to his feet abjectly until they learned that nobody was hurt. He had protested against wholesale pardons, but the worst criminals had come back with a pardon in one pocket and a commission to a high office in another. He then drew a picture of the state of things that would result if they should get into Congress on Johnson's plan. He believed there was as much organized rebellion now in the South as there was at the time of the fall of Sumter, and that it is known to Andrew Johnson. Great anxiety pervaded the land. He abjured to see to it that no man, be he high or low, President or private should lay a rude hand upon the starry folds of their flag. If Congress discharged its duty, Andrew Johnson should stand impeached before the high inquest of the nation, and when he was summoned to its bar, if he should deny its authority and call upon the military to protect him, it would be for the American people to rally for the country and teach the President that they are the rulers of the Government.

[At this point three cheers were given for Congress, and three cheers being called for Andrew Johnson, the call was drowned with groans and hisses.]

A BEAUTIFUL SENTIMENT.—Shortly before the departure of the lamented Heber for India, he preached a sermon which contained this exquisite illustration:

Life bears us on like the stream of a mighty river. Our boat first glides down the narrow channel—through the playful murmurings of the little brook and the windings of its grassy borders. The trees shed their blossoms over our young heads; the flowers seem to offer themselves to the young hands; we are happy in hope, and grasp eagerly at the beauty about us, but the stream hurries on, and still our hands are empty. Our course in youth and manhood is along a deeper and wider flood, among objects more striking and magnificent. We are animated at the moving pictures of enjoyment and industry all around us; we are excited at some short-lived disappointment. The stream bears us on, and our joys and our sorrows are alike left behind us. We may be shipwrecked, but we cannot be delayed; rough or smooth, the river hastens on till the roar of the ocean is in our ears, and the tossing of the waves is beneath our feet, and the floods are lifted up around us, and we take our leave of earth and its inhabitants, until there is not a witness save the Infinite and Eternal.

NAPOLEON.—If we believe the Paris letter-writers, Napoleon III has the inflammatory rheumatism, diabetes, dyspepsia, Bright's disease, Smith's disease, sciatic gout, aurora borealis, integral calculus, and several other things; he was almost poisoned at Vichy; but he manages to survive all, even Bismarck's dose of Prussic acid.

A lady entered a train at a country station on the New Jersey Railroad, the other day, and sat down with her back to the locomotive. Finding her mistake, and not wishing to ride backwards, she politely asked the conductor if he would turn the car around. He didn't do it. That's what Johnson told the conductor of the Union car.

NOT CERTAIN.—The dwellers at the foot of Shasta Butte are not satisfied yet that Mount Hood is higher than Shasta. They intend to fight on that line inch by inch.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 19, 18[illegible]

The Victorians in Commotion.

Our V[illegible] C[illegible] are [illegible] considerably agitated [illegible] annexation [illegible]. The [illegible] has an organ to represent the [illegible] The Lea[illegible] [illegible] for the annexationists, while the [illegible] is the organ of loyalty, cries down with the traitors and "God save the Queen." The [illegible] journal argues soberly and in a very temperate manner for the separation of Vancouver Island from mother country and its union with the United States. It thinks the interests of the colony would in every way be promoted by annexation. But its opponent is much too "loyal" to be moved by such paltry and sordid arguments. It deals largely in such expressions as "caitiff wretches," "annexation wolves," "political reprobates," etc., and even threatens with violence those who are discussing the subject on the side of annexation. They had a public meeting at the Victoria Theatre not long ago to consider the matter and debate whether a union with this country would be desirable, but the Col[illegible] party, hitting upon a happy expedient, saved Vancouver Island to the Queen by secretly and quietly turning off the gas and involving the theater in total darkness. Thus treason was utterly foiled and the bright jewel of the North-west coast preserved in Victoria's crown. But then arose another danger. A petition was drawn up to be presented to Her Majesty's Government asking that the Island might be released from the royal apron strings and permitted to form other connections as inclination might prompt or interest dictate. This petition was to be circulated among Her Majesty's subjects in the colony, that they might have an opportunity of expressing their wishes in regard to the matter. But the Colonist fellows were again lions in the way. They boldly declared that the petition should not circulate, and warned its authors not to attempt the business unless they had a weakness for the perfume of addled eggs. The consequence of this second demonstration was a second triumph of "loyalty," and it does not appear that the "treason petition" ever attained any considerable popularity. Thus the threat of a shower of "stale eggs" this time saved to Her Majesty some of the fairest portions of her dominions. But the Telegraph people declare that they will not be bullied out of their right to enjoy free discussion, and assert that they will keep the matter in agitation, believing that their true interests points to the annexation of the colony to the United States. The Colonist, too is for a further vigorous prosecution of the campaign against the "traitors," and promises to "continue our efforts until the last enemy of the Old Flag has either been driven from the colony, or compelled to acknowledge the error of his ways and ask forgiveness for his sins." This is a statement of the posture of affairs at last advices. The Colonist does not tell us what expedient it intends to resort to next to maintain the honor of the crown, but probably its people will keep well supplied with addled eggs, and hold themselves in readiness, in case of a sudden emergency, to turn gas off at the theatre again. It is clear that summary measures must be resorted to to quell the growing sedition. The whole affair is one of absorbing interest, and the struggle that is going on over it does indeed

Resemble ocean into tempest wrought,
To waft a feather, or to drown a fly.

Our neighbors do not stop to inquire whether we of the United States desire a connection with them. But let that pass. We do not doubt that they are a very agreeable folk, or that the universal Yankee nation would accept the offer of their company and their colony. At the same time we are not aware that there is any consuming, intense anxiety among the people of the United States for the annexation of that loyal Island. It may naturally gravitate this way after awhile. Meantime, let the fight go on between the "traitors" and the "defenders of the crown."

Executive Usurpation.

The following paragraph is from a late speech delivered at Indianapolis by Gov. Oglesby, of Illinois:

Where do these Johnson Democrats differ from us? They say that you Republicans in Indiana are in favor of Congress and opposed to the President. If I understand myself, that is my case exactly. I am most emphatically and unequivocally in favor of Congress, and the laws of Congress, as opposed to Andy Johnson. I happen to know that the Congress of the United States is the law-making power of the nation, and that the Congress speaks for me and for you; and I also happen to know that Andy Johnson, nor any other President, is the voice of the people, that he cannot speak for the American people. Did you ever hear of Congress having a policy? Did you ever hear of the Supreme Court of the United States having a policy? Are they not two of the independent co-ordinate branches of the Government, having charge of and controlling it? If this is so, please tell me where, in the Constitution, the President gets his right to have a "policy." When Andy Johnson spoke of "my policy," as he did in his 22d of February speech, and declares he is going to enforce it, carry it out, where did he get his right to have a policy or to carry one out?

This argument has never been presented as frequently as it deserves. It is vital to the whole subject in controversy. The President has no right to a policy at all. Who have a Constitution? In this instrument the duties of the Executive are specifically defined. He has no legislative or judicial powers. He can originate nothing. His duties are simply to execute the laws. The people may have a policy, and their representatives in Congress may give it direction by legislation. But the President whose powers are restricted and whose duties are defined, cannot, without usurpation, originate measures which he wishes to carry through, give them the form of a distinct policy and seek their enforcement in spite of the legislative and judicial departments of the Government. The Emperor of France may have a policy, but the President of the United States may not. What right had Andrew Johnson to set up a policy and endeavor to enforce it? How could he know that it was what the people wanted? Is he their master that he should dictate their policy? Or is this a Government of the people who, alone, have a right to declare what its policy shall be, and how it shall be carried out? The policy which the President advocates and claims as his own, is independent of the other branches of the Government and ignores their existence. Its principle is that of despotism; for if a President may give us a policy, and enforce it in utter disregard of the national legislature, he may do all that Louis Napoleon has power to do. A private citizen of this country may have a policy—may do just as he pleases in demanding the amendment or alteration of our form of Government or its laws, but the President in his official capacity has nothing to do but enforce the laws already provided. Therefore Andrew Johnson has no right to a policy, and his attempt to build up one is nothing less than usurpation.

Sold.—The Copperheads of New York and Brooklyn went in crowds to Plymouth Church on a Sunday not long ago to listen to Henry Ward Beecher's preaching—expecting to hear a "sound national sermon" in favor of "my policy." But their disappointment and disgust were great, to find that Beecher did not even allude to political matters. Instead of denunciations of the Radicals they heard something about a "generation of vipers." This is supposed to be the first gospel sermon these benighted Copperheads ever listened to. It is not reported, however, that they have visited Plymouth Church since.

OREGON LEGISLATURE

Fourth Regular Session

House.

SALEM, Oct 1[illegible] 18[illegible]

Prayer by the Rev M [illegible] Dick[illegible] of the Congregational Church.

The reading of the journal was postponed to give the [illegible] more time to prepare it.

Mr [illegible] from the [illegible] Judiciary to whom had been referred [illegible] relation to partition of real estate [illegible] reported without recommendation.

Mr [illegible] reported [illegible] to provide for the care of [illegible] ordered engrossed.

Mr OLNEY reported back the Astoria [illegible] Bill with [illegible]

Mr HENDERSHOTT from the special committee on the [illegible]

Mr HENDERSHOTT from the committee to investigate the condition of the Penitentiary [illegible] cause of escape of prisoners [illegible] reported as follows:

After visiting and carefully examining the grounds [illegible] the following:

First. That there [illegible] either before the meeting of the Legislature or since the same.

Second. From the evidence before us we are satisfied that the present management of the Penitentiary is as good as can be, taking the peculiar circumstances and surroundings into consideration in which both officers and convicts are placed.

Third. It becomes our duty to recommend that a vote of censure be recorded against Mr A C R Shaw the former Superintendent of the Penitentiary, and by law he be disqualified from holding any office of trust or profit under the State government for the following reasons to wit:

First. For taking the irons off the convicts for the purpose as the evidence before your committee conclusively shows merely to injure the patentee.

Second. After having been repeatedly notified by his officers that a conspiracy was culminating and a break contemplated by the prisoners, the Superintendent took no measures to stop the same, thereby securing to the State the prisoners.

Instead thereof, the said Superintendent professed to disbelieve the reports furnished him from time to time and by his negligence became an accessory and offered inducements for a break, from which life was sacrificed, the public endangered and the State Treasury depleted by paying rewards for the recapture of the escaped convicts.

We would further recommend the passage of the accompanying bill: "A bill to encourage good behavior of convicts in the State Penitentiary" after having struck out of Section [illegible] the following: "And it shall not be lawful to punish any convict by shower baths nor flogging may be used under extreme circumstances and not then until in the judgment of the Superintendent and Warden, the same is actually necessary." We would further recommend that the present State ground set aside for penitentiary buildings be abandoned for the following reasons viz:

I. On account of the ineligibility of the site, the same being too low for drainage.

II. In a sanitary point of view it should be abandoned because the situation is such that the health of the inmates cannot be properly preserved to them as we their present guardians should require.

III. Your committee being willing to admit the advantage that will accrue to the State at some future day, from the water privilege connected with the present location, cannot but deprecate the want of all other advantages that should be sought for in making such location.

We therefore recommend that no further expenditure be made on the said grounds, excepting such as are actually necessary in finishing up the buildings now partially erected for the safe keeping of the inmates.

We would further recommend that the purchase of the Gardener Shackle be made by the State at a stipulated sum of not more than five thousand dollars for the State right and that the appropriation be made, and the Governor be requested to purchase the same from the owner of the patent, and the said shackle and no other, be used in this State. And further that after the purchase thereof, the Superintendent of the State Penitentiary be instructed to furnish to the various counties throughout this State such number of shackles and stirrup as each county,—with full instructions as the manner of using the same, and the cost per shackle and appurtenances shall be to each county so furnished the actual cost of the material and manufacture, with ten per cent. added for the benefit of the State.

And your committee would further recommend, that when in joint convention there be two Commissioners elected to act in conjunction with the Superintendent of the Penitentiary to select a new site for penitentiary buildings.

That after the selection and purchase of land for such building the rotunda plan shall be adopted by the said Commissioners, and that the originator of the design be employed by them to furnish plans and specifications in detail, provided however, that the same can be furnished at a reasonable cost to the State.

And further that the Commissioners not to contract for any material or work outside of this State, that can be supplied by the ingenuity or labor of citizens or the productions of the State of Oregon, and, further convict labor must be considered in all bids for construction of Penitentiary buildings. And we would further recommend that a proper appropriation be made for said work.

And your committee would further recommend that the Insane Asylum and Penitentiary building Commissioners be separate and the Governor be empowered to appoint one Commissioner to act in conjunction with Messrs. Moores and Atkinson the present Building Commissioners."

The report was received the committee discharged and 200 copies of the report ordered printed.

The bill to encourage good behavior among the convicts was read a first and second time and ordered engrossed.

The bill to change the time of assessments was reported back amended and ordered engrossed.

Mr NICKLIN reported back the bill to repeal the militia law recommending that it do not pass.

Mr HELM submitted a minority report recommending that the bill do pass without an amendment.

Mr HUMASON presented a majority report in favor of a bill to encourage immigration.

Mr HENDERSHOTT presented a minority report against it.

At 12-20 on motion of Mr ROSS, adjourned until 7 o'clock P M.

EVENING

Met at 7 o'clock P M.

Mr HUMASON reported back the bill to apportion representation upon the census of 1865, without recommendation.

Mr [illegible]. In order to test the sense of the House, I will move that we now adjourn. No second.

Mr OLNEY, from the committee to investigate the discrepancy apparently existing between the report of J D Boon, State Treasurer and Lucien Heath, Secretary of State reported having made the examination and found the accounts correct, except that the Secretary of State had not given credit for some orders. A resolution was adopted authorizing the Secretary of State to balance the accounts.

The Divorce Bill, by motion of Mr Helm, was then taken from the table, and after considerable discussion was laid upon the table, and afterwards reconsidered and ordered engrossed.

Mr HUMASON called attention to the manner in which the report of the Penitentiary Committee had been printed. He claimed that the resolution had been so printed as to enable the printer to charge more than three times the value of the work. He offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Printing to enquire into the matter.

Messrs. GEER and HELM found fault with the manner in which the bills had been printed and blamed the State Printer.

The General Appropriation Bill came up on its third reading, and on motion of Mr COCHRAN the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole, with Mr Olney in the Chair.

Mr HELM moved to amend the bill by striking out the appropriation for the Adjutant General $500 per annum and supported his amendment at length. Messrs HUMASON, COCHRAN and AVERY also advocated it with some modifications to allow time for closing up the business of the office.

Mr STARKWEATHER opposed the amendment.

Mr LORING moved to adjourn. Ruled out of order in committee of whole.

On motion of Mr STARKWEATHER the committee arose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

On motion of Mr OLNEY the committee was discharged from the further consideration of the bill.

Mr COX moved to adjourn until 7 o'clock P M on Thursday.

Mr STARKWEATHER moved to amend by substituting 8 o'clock A M.

Mr HELM opposed the amendment and desired an adjournment for the whole day.

Mr OLNEY insisted that it was necessary to meet early in the morning in order to get through with the journal and be ready to attend to other business in the evening.

Mr HUMASON. I hope the amendment will prevail. For my part I have had about enough of the Fair anyhow. One half day has satisfied me.

Mr COCHRAN. I have had enough of the Fair too.

Mr GEER. I am very anxious to go to the Fair. I came here more for that purpose than anything else anyhow. I don't care whether my constituents like the way I do or not. I don't want them to send me here again. There are eight or ten of us who want to go out to the Fair to-night, and if we are not allowed to go we will not try very hard to do anything here.

Mr LORING favored the amendment. His constituents had sent him to the Legislature and not to the Fair.

Mr ROSS said that when his constituents complained about his having done nothing here, he should answer them by saying that he had done his duty. I'll tell them that we gave the fellows hell down there anyhow.

At 8:30 P M, adjourned till 8 o'clock A M to-morrow.

Nothing to Wear.—A claim was recently preferred against an insurance company in New York for a lady's wardrobe destroyed by fire in that city. The schedule of articles is published in full and the document occupies over two columns in the New York Herald. Two hundred articles, great and small, are enumerated—the two largest items being one white satin dress of exceeding rich quality trimmed with blonde and bugles, two flounces of very deep point d'Alencon, sleeves of the same reaching down to the elbows, and bertha to match with white bugles and blonde to match, valued at $2,500; and one royal blue satin dress trimmed apron shape with black Brussels lace and gold and bugle trimmings with one flounce going all around the skirt of black Brussels lace body and sleeves to match, sleeves looped up with blue velvet roses set in lace to imitate a bouquet, $1,800. The list is very minute in description and quite interesting in its way. The footing up shows the estimated value of the lady's wardrobe to be twenty one thousand! And we have no reason to suppose it an over estimate for every item in the bill was "when purchased [illegible] so cheap you know." The catalogue affords a most delightful and cheering morsel of light literature for the perusal of young men contemplating matrimony.

In the second race in heats three in five, Philip Moore entered the bay horse Sorrel Deer, S [illegible] Thompson the bay mare Minnie [illegible]. First, second and third heats were won by the latter. Time [illegible] and 2.10.

The third race was between [illegible] Banks and Dennison's mare Nellie, three in five. The horse drew off at the beginning of the first heat through a mistake by the driver, who did not hear the [illegible]. The mare made the three heats in [illegible] and received the premium.

The fourth race was a trotting match [illegible] two in three, closely contested by L C Griffith's [illegible] and Welch's bay horse Billy Sibert, [illegible] years old. Won by Billy Sibert. A light bay [illegible] entered by Clark from Yamhill county was distanced. Time [illegible] and 3.50.

The premiums were generally awarded [illegible] until a late hour. The attendance to-day was much larger than on either of the previous days. A light rain fell during last night, with prospects of more to-night.

The Legislature.

The Legislature will adjourn [illegible] probably on Saturday. Neither House is in session this afternoon or evening.

Dispatches were received at Victoria on the 12th inst stating that the Bellingham Bay coal mines were on fire, and asking that the [illegible] might be sent to carry water to extinguish it. The Fideliter accordingly sailed at once for the Bay with the materials and assistance required.

It is not a Dye, neither does it [illegible] the color the skin, but "Martha Washington Hair Restorer" is just the very best article for old and young heads that has been discovered. Buy it.

ARTISTIC BEAUTY.—ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 69 First street, are embellishing the albums of the country with the most BEAUTIFUL PICTURES, while the parlor and drawing room walls of our citizens are adorned with the most elegant specimens of the photographic art—from this GALLERY. The advantage of having work done at a FIRST CLASS GALLERY like the above it is hardly necessary now to urge.

GOOD NEWS FROM MONTANA.—From the appearance of the miners who are now returning from Blackfoot and the other mining districts of Montana we should judge that the mines have turned out remarkably well, as they invariably make a large deposit of the color at the St Louis Store No 1[illegible] Front street, and receive an ample equivalent of course in the shape of excellent clothing, such as Messrs KOHN & FISHEL always keep. Everybody can be suited both as to style and quality, at strictly San Francisco prices.

PORTLAND ACADEMY AND FEMALE SEMINARY.—Pupils are admitted at any time and are charged only for the remainder of the Quarter. For Circular containing full information address

The Graefenberg Company's Uterine CATHOLICON does not contain one particle of calomel or mercury and cases of Female Complaints which require other treatment than the Catholicon are strictly rare. It should be used in all cases of Deranged Monthly Periods, Weakness, Irregular Appetite, Nervousness, Headache, Disturbed Sleep and Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, and Pains and Difficulties connected with the Uterine Organs.

THE UTERINE CATHOLICON

Is a most successful remedy for Gravel and all affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, while in the [illegible] the symptoms attending Pregnancy the benefits of the Catholicon are most remarkable. It is a perfect restorer of functional and general health from puberty [illegible] to the turn of life and those patients who have used the GRAEFENBERG COMPANY'S UTERINE CATHOLICON find difficulty in expressing their thanks for the beneficial [illegible]

THE ROBBERY.—The examination in the case of J. F. McCloskey charged with having robbed Mrs Lambert [illegible] took place yesterday [illegible] Judge Hoffman The [illegible]—Mrs Lambert—testified that she resides on Fifth street [illegible] that she had $40 in gold coin in a buckskin purse which she had placed within the mattress upon her bed; that she had ripped the mattress and after depositing the money within it had sewn it up again; that [illegible] she obtained money she was in the habit of looking at it in this place; that on the morning of [illegible] she examined the mattress and found the money was there; that she came down town at [illegible] o'clock on the morning of the 13th instant for the purpose of seeing an old friend of hers named M[illegible] whom she heard was intending to leave the [illegible]. McCloskey and H Swift had been boarding at [illegible] that the [illegible] McCloskey was with [illegible] and had been staying at her house until he could [illegible] On the morning referred to she told McCloskey that if he would attend to the housework she would go down to the city and see her friend. When she left the house she left McCloskey and Swift there; she was absent from the house about two and-a half hours, and that she returned about 2 o'clock P M and [illegible] she met McCloskey and McLothlin coming [illegible] without having stopped to remove her [illegible] shawl, she went to the bed chamber and opened [illegible] door, and noticed that the bed had been [illegible] and upon making an examination, she [illegible] that the money had been taken out, the purse replaced and the place in the mattress sewed up again. The door of the room was locked when she went away and found locked upon her return—that two keys locked all the doors of the house, and that the keys were usually left in the door lock. Two or three days previous one of the keys was missing, and had not since been found. This lost key would unlock the bedroom [illegible]. She said that McCloskey had often told her she had money hid away and that he would like to find it. She had been sick and McCloskey wanted her to make a will. She said the money had been made by keeping boarders and in keeping a lager beer saloon. She acknowledged [illegible] charity, and said this money she wished [illegible] and would not encroach upon it. She said that [illegible] misrepresentations about it, but that her husband was in the penitentiary, and that if he could succeed [illegible] she wished to have the means to join him, so that when he had served out his time they would [illegible] enough to go elsewhere.

Henry Swift, being duly sworn testified that he was at the house when Mrs Lambert came down town; that he asked McCloskey to come down with him and that [illegible] said if he would wait he would come. He did [illegible] told McCloskey he would meet him at the [illegible], but he went down to Artigoni's to see [illegible] not finding him went to the saloon to see [illegible] as they had agreed, but did not find him there. [illegible] knew of Mrs Lambert having money; that he [illegible] boarding with Mrs Lambert, that McCloskey [illegible]

[illegible] being duly sworn testified:—That on the [illegible] of the 13th inst. he went up to the house of Mrs Lambert between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock A M, [illegible] on reaching the house he met McCloskey at the hall [illegible] in his shirtsleeves. Mrs. Lambert was not in the house. He went into the kitchen and stayed about [illegible] minutes, when McCloskey went into the yard and stayed a short time, when he came back into the house, put on his coat, and they came down town together and [illegible] down they were met by Mrs Lambert who asked them to return, which they refused. They went to the [illegible] saloon where they had several drinks, McCloskey paying for the same, thinks that McCloskey must have gold changed but paid for the drinks with [illegible]; they were both intoxicated and that he went [illegible], says that the reputation of Mrs. Lambert is good.

[illegible] being duly sworn testified—That about noon [illegible] day in question he met Mrs. Lambert and that she asked him for money, saying that she was destitute, and that her children were suffering, had known Mrs. Lambert for a number of years, did not think her reputation good.

After the case was rested, the pleadings were heard, the evidence summed up. The prisoner was remanded [illegible] and judgment will be rendered this morning at [illegible] o'clock.

PASSENGERS LIST.—The steamship Oriflamme sailed yesterday at 2 o'clock P M. She takes the following passengers: H A H Cuningham wife & 2 children, J Robson, Wm Cranston wife & 6 children, D Davis, Thos M [illegible] wife & child, D P Campbell, Mrs L Bettman wife [illegible], John Wilson, J E Ralston, S M Bornhardt, [illegible] Chapman, T Boyash, Geo T Hedges, Thos Harris, [illegible], W F Turnbull, W H Nye, M Gale, T J Fergu[illegible], Wm Goodell & wife, Mrs D Y Garcia & 4 children, [illegible] Borchardt, M McCollier wife & 5 children, A [illegible], A H White, J Crawford, N Corbett, Dr W H [illegible] & wife, Mrs M Peterson & child, Mrs M Chard [illegible] children, L May, J M Lapene, M Weil, J W Wayde[illegible], G M Frazer, W H Rand, Maj S Francis, D J Fran[illegible], [illegible] Bell, Jacob Show, T G Morris, R R Kincaid, [illegible], J L Kincaid, H Hoffman wife & child, Mrs [illegible], Mrs Lane, T Twing, N Neng, D Dalton, George [illegible], Jas Courtney, R B Peterson, H Bray, D Brown, [illegible] W Kelly, H Herr[illegible], S Chenoweth, P Loon[illegible], [illegible] Kelly, F Clark, J Kane, E Byrne, M McGuire, [illegible], Geo Rankin, J J Woodland, L I Dodge, A [illegible], Wm Taylor, Mrs M Collins, P Gibbons & 2 [illegible], Jno Devarnoy, Jno Quigley, C Durano, Wm [illegible], C W Wells, P Edwards, M Edwards, C [illegible], A Ferguson & wife, Mrs S A Gibbs, D J [illegible] Long, C S Murphy, T D Murphy, A Heffer[illegible], C Hoffman, M O Neil, J Daley, B Duskell, [illegible] T Armstrong, P Connolly, J Harder, M H [illegible], A Cloudenna, J A Swartz, T Johnson, [illegible], Mrs Caldwell & child, Jas Laura, A Roschet, J [illegible], A Mentz, J Barry, P Kews, M Patterson, P [illegible], J Levy, Jno Veune, E Atkinson, J P Tibbetts & [illegible], L C Tibbetts, P Brady, W G West (W F & Co's [illegible]) and 63 others.

TREASURE.—The treasure shipped per steamer Oriflamme yesterday was as follows:

Wells, Fargo & Co	$72,000
Ladd & Tilton	55,000
[illegible] Bros	13,000
[illegible]	40,000
Total	$180,000

FREIGHT.—The steamer Oriflamme took yesterday to San Francisco the following freight, 3,680 qr sks flour, [illegible], 123 gunnies bacon, 1 buggy, 5 horses, 2 bales [illegible], 30 bales merchandise, 12 sks wheat, 2 hf bbls dried [illegible], 13 hf bbls salmon, 211 kgs tallow, 13 bals wool, [illegible] boxes apples.

SAILED.—The steamship Oriflamme, Francis Connor commanding, sailed yesterday for San Francisco direct. She was advertised for 12 o'clock but the tide not serving she did not leave the wharf until near two hours later. She takes a large number of passengers.

[illegible] PRODUCE.—The steamer Senator brought [illegible] qr sks flour, 6 bales woolen goods, 23 boxes apples, [illegible] bbls eggs, 6 trunks, 3 cases merchandise, 1 coop chickens, 31 sks barley, 40 sks wheat, 276 sks feed.

NO [illegible].—We received last evening no mail from above the Dalles, the Chief not having arrived up to the time of the Dalles boat leaving. The boat above was probably detained by fog.

[illegible].—In chambers before Judge Shattuck yesterday in the case of Herman and others against Abrams and others, the motion to dissolve the writ of injunction was overruled.

The [illegible] has been looked for for several days. The probable cause of her detention is the fire in the Bellingham Bay coal mines, to which she was despatched with [illegible].

AUCTION.—Remember the auction to-day at Kilbourn's auction room, No 96 Front street.

A Department of Medicine and Surgery has been organized in connection with the Willamette University. The Faculty consists of H Carpenter M. D, Professor of Civil and Military Surgery, A. R. Fiske, M D, Professor of Pathology and Practice of Medicine, J B Boswell, M D, Professor of Obstetrics and the diseases of Women and Children, J. H Wythe, M D., Professor of Physiology, Hygiene and Microscopy; D Payton, M. D, Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, J W M'Afee, M D, Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology, A Sharples, M. D., Professor of Descriptive and Surgical Anatomy, W. C. Warinner, M. D, Demonstrator of Anatomy, and J S Smith, Esq., Professor of Medical Jurisprudence. Arrangements have been made for lectures, to commence on the 1st day of April next, and to continue until the 25th day of July. Clinical instructions will be given twice each week. All the necessary means will be provided to facilitate the study of Medical Science.

"What pledge have I broken?" inquired our [illegible] Chief Magistrate in a late speech. "The temperance pledge which you signed soon after your inauguration!" shouted a Radical wag in the crowd.

A St. Louis correspondent narrates the following [illegible] incident: "Coming down Chestnut street, St Louis, one day last week, I was struck by the appearance of an old man past sixty, who wore a threadbare coat [illegible] with constant wear and whose hat was bruised and [illegible]. His head was bent toward the earth and his walk was a tottering shuffle, the effect of whisky and old age. He reeled from one side of the pavement to the other and at last brought up against a lamp-post on the corner, when a young-looking loafer, coming along, saluted him with, 'Hellow Jim! come and take a drink.' The old man's eyes brightened, and, arm in arm, he [illegible] along to the nearest groggery with his companion. Five years ago that old man was James Green, U. S. Senator from Missouri, and in the days of the Kansas and Lecompton matters he was, next to Stephen A. Douglas, the ablest debater in Congress, and a better logician than Douglas. But the war broke out, Green was sent to the Rebel Congress, soon lost his property, his position, and his character, and now he is a poor drunkard, and earns barely a pittance of a living as a callaboose [illegible]."

SHINING MOUNTAIN SODA SPRINGS.—At the foot of the Siskiyou on the California side, in the vicinity of the Oregon boundary line are four excellent soda springs of pure cold water with a fine rite and [illegible] mineral [illegible]. Three of them are small and are located about [illegible] miles north-west of the lower Cole's, while the other is a little west of the Upper Cole's, quite large and measures one hundred feet in circumference, running almost a sluice-head outlet.

Camp Meeting Talk.

In August I went to camp-meeting. It was on Sunday: I was piously disposed; and Lillian said she was to be there.

Preaching had not begun when I got there, but promenading and private concerting were in order. I hear I some of the latter; the choruses were effective, but the solo-parts were not well executed, so I turned away, and gave my attention to the 'promenaders.' "I leant my back up to an aik," as the Scotch fellow did in the ballad, and as it neither bent nor broke, I was able to observe the circling throng with some minuteness. The following is a synopsis of the remarks made by the various couples, caught and recorded as they passed by me. The report is as accurate as if it were made for a Military Commission. It may be depended upon, as the speakers have not called upon me to revise their remarks:

"Yes, indeed," (two girls talking, of course), "and my brother Tom says that Henry Soker brags about the many times he has kissed her right in the mouth; and she never slaps him at all when nobody is by. I am sure I should die if people were to talk of me as they do of her, for——"

"Corn is up again, you know, and I shall make three hundred barrels if I make a peck, and consequently——"

"It will be impossible for me to pay it now, having so many demands upon me; but I heard from my agent last week, and he says——"

"What a spectacle all this is, to be suah, Chauls! Ah wondah if these people—deuzed pooty gahl, ain't she, but horridly dwessed—build theyah own tents, own hiwah men, th ah do it fowah 'em? Must be a gweat boah to——"

"Be married in six weeks from last Tuesday. I heard ma talking about it, but you mustn't mention it for the world! It's a great secret."

"Really, now! And she's as ugly as——"

"The finest sow you ever saw, sir. Pure Chester, and she's got nine splendid pigs. And it's the best trade I ever made. I wouldn't take thirty dollars for——"

"That waterfall! Only look, Amy! Did you ever in your life see anything like it? Oh, but wouldn't I hate to——"

"Go to the pic-nic on Thursday?"

"Oh, thank you Mr. Smith. You don't know how I would love to be present. I am so fond of dancing and company—but father says——"

"I am truly gratified my young friend, to find that you are so deeply impressed with the necessity for an immediate repentance, and I hope you will procure——"

"Ten yards of gimp for the bosom, and over so much real lace, and, oh, Emily, she'll have——"

"The finest baby you ever saw; blue eyes and brown hair, fat as a little pig, and only six weeks old, and then it weighs——"

"Sixty-one pounds and a quarter to a bushel. None better in the country. Free from cockrel and garlic, and not a symptom of smut. I held it at——"

"Stillopolis, next Saturday. Bob Bothsides, our Congressman, is going to speak and he says——"

"Ah, Mrs. Pepper, you flatter me so! Just see how horridly Kate Witmot is dressed. She will wear yellow, though it makes her look like——"

"Fever an' agy, I believe. They've all been laid up with it, an' now the poor man's got——"

"The sweetest bonnet I ever did see! Where did you get it? Perfectly splendid! I must recommend dear mama to your——"

"Watermillion patch. Stole every darned one. Some of 'em only 'bout half ripe. I swow I'll fix some of 'em if they don't——"

"Go to the Water Cure. It's the best thing for your case, ma'am. I've seen some wonderful effects from it, indeed! Some wonderful cures. Mr. Thomas Holocaust was cured of——"

"Twenty-five pounds of butter a week, and then they always get as much as sixty cents a pound, and sometimes even——"

"Four eggs, two handsful of flour, a dab of yeast, half a cup of molasses, with a spoonful of lard, and it makes——"

"The best manure I ever used, sir, vastly superior to guano or super-phosphate. A light application of two hundred and fifty pounds to the acre raised me——"

"The handsomest woman on the ground. Her equal for beauty is not here, unless it is sweet Mary Blane, and she's got——"

"The spavin in both hind legs. And there's a speck in her right eye that bound to——"

"That beautiful girl in black there, I never saw but once before, and that was at——"

"Muggins failure, sir. And he has taken to drink, awfully, and only last week had——"

"His head under my arm, and was plugging him in the mouth, when he got my finger——"

"Between the 10th and 15th, I will send my wheat to market and it will bring——"

"His gray hairs in sorrow to the grave. Oh, indeed, it is awful to think how——"

"Close she hangs to his arm. She ought to be ashamed of herself, and never saw him until——"

"William was born last April, 25 years ago. I am an old woman now, and my wrinkles make——"

"Heeled gaiters so becoming to——"

"The brindled steer with his——"

"Legs hung a' dangling over the back of the arm chair, and——"

"A brace of pheasants, roosting under——"

"A promissory note; but he won't pay until——"

"You parboil it quite tender, and then stew it in the juice of——"

"An old hymn book with——"

"A cupalo on top, a piazza in front, and the front door made of——"

"The finest bed of celery you ever saw in your life, and——"

"She sleeps there every night, though I tell her she'll catch——"

"Ben Butler stealing spoons, that he might present them to——"

"The dead! Here comes the minister, and now we must stop talking and listen to a long-winded sermon."

General Grant at the Cincinnati Theater.—A special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune, dated Pittsburg, Sept. 13th, says:

A mischievous report has been telegraphed over the country from Cincinnati, originating in the office of the Copperhead Enquirer, to the effect that General Grant had made a speech in Wood's Theater, in response to demonstrations in his honor, saying in substance: "The President of the United States is my Commander-in-Chief. I consider this a demonstration in opposition to President Johnson, and I cannot and will not meet you—if you have any regard for me you will take your men away to their homes—I am greatly annoyed at this demonstration, for I came here to enjoy this theatrical performance—I will be glad to see you all when the President arrives." For the purpose of ascertaining the facts in this behalf, I sought an interview with the General this evening. He informed me that he had made no speech at Cincinnati, at all; that he had a private conversation in his own box at the theater with a gentleman who called to propose some kind of a demonstration in his honor; that he had told this gentleman that the President of the United States was his superior officer and that he (Grant) was under the President's command, and that he could not feel otherwise than annoyed at the demonstration evidently gotten up to offend the President, as it would embarrass the relations existing between them. For this reason he desired his friends in Cincinnati to omit the demonstration and leave him to enjoy the performance at the theater—adding that he should be glad to meet them all at the Burnett House the next day. This innocent and proper remark, made in private conversation, was distorted for partisan purposes and sent over the country as a public speech insulting to the Republicans of Cincinnati, and through them to the Republicans of the United States, to the great annoyance of the General.

The General added, that he had accompanied the Presidential party at the President's request—that he had abstained equally from declaring his own political sentiments, or authorizing anybody else to do so. He said that neither Mr. Seward nor any other person could commit him to any set of political opinions—that he was annoyed at the successive attempts which have been made by Seward and others, to announce to the people along the road that his political views were in harmony with those of Mr. Johnson. I inquired whether it was true that he had attended the interview between the Philadelphia Convention Committee and the President, upon his own motion. He replied: "Of course not. That being a purely political gathering, it was none of my business. I was there at the request of the President, and all attempts to attach a political significance to my presence are unwarranted and impertinent."

An Ancient Revolver.—In the historical collection of Dresden is an object of great interest—a perfect revolving pistol, more than two hundred years old—no antiquated half-made, rough, rudimentary affair, but as thoroughly finished a pistol as were the Toledo and Damascus blades of older date. It is of the same size as a Colt's revolver, and not only where the revolving barrels of precisely the same structure, size and shape, but they were six in number. The only point of inferiority was that in this there is no spring to bring up the next barrel when one is fired—it must be done with the hand. Colonel Colt was shown the pistol while in Europe shortly before his

Mrs. Partington.—"If there is anybody under the canister of heaven that I have in utter excrescence," says Mrs. Partington, "it is Andy Johnson, who is going about like a boy constructor, circulating his calomel upon honest folks."

An After-Dinner Yarn.

It was a stormy evening, and we could hear the rain beating hard against the shuttered windows, as my friend Ned Davis and myself drew our chairs close up to the blazing bachelor's fire, and proceeded to make ourselves snug for the evening. We completed our arrangements, and sat in silence for some minutes, my friend looking over the day's paper, until he suddenly exclaimed:

"Jones is dead!"

"Mr. Jones! that was quick work," I replied, "for I met him in the city not a week ago, though indeed I noticed at the time how ill he looked."

"He was married," said Davis, laconically, as if, in his estimation, that was sufficient to make any man ill.

"Indeed!" said I, "he's changed then; for he used to say the nicest girl in the world wouldn't tempt him; for as a mad dog dreads water, so did he women and children."

"Changed in that he is not," replied Davis; "but I'll tell you the story, though I'm a bad hand at 'spinning a yarn.'"

"Fire away, old fellow," said I; "but first fill our glass."

Complying with my request, Ned began:

"How Jones first met his future wife," said he, "or proposed for her, I can't say—for the best of all reasons, that I don't know; but the general opinion is, that it was she who proposed for him, and I am very much inclined to think so, too. But, however that may be, he was to be married to Miss Mary Graves, and everything was settled. But the night before that happy day Jones had a dream, of the nature of Pharaoh's, with this slight difference, that he dreamt not of kind, but of children; which reminding him of his hatred for infants, all his former horrors returned, insomuch that on his wedding-day he started for church with a black patch covering his left cheek, where he had cut himself whilst shaving, through sheer nervousness. At last he stood before the altar, 'a melancholy man;' and when the clergyman put to him the awful question that was to seal his doom:

"'Thomas, wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?' etc., the wretched Thomas hurriedly replied:

"'No.'

"What followed I never exactly heard; but I believe the bride was carried out in a dead faint; though, being a strongminded woman, she soon recovered, and sent a message requesting Mr. Jones would call upon her the following day, which he accordingly did, in fear and trembling, expecting he would either have to marry her, or pay the heavy damages of a breach of promise, case. But he was agreeably disappointed. The lady received him coldly, and stated that as he had chosen to publicly insult her the day before, she would only consider it gentlemanly of him to allow her to return the compliment.

"Tom consented, glad to be let off so easily; another day was appointed; and when asked whether he would have the charming Mary, he replied in the affirmative, and waited to hear her pronounce the word which would rid him of her forever. Solemnly and distinctly did the clergyman put the question:

"'Mary, wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?' etc., and very audibly and clearly did Miss Mary reply:

"'I will.'"

Davis paused to fill his glass, and then continued:

"Poor Jones! his nerves received a shock that day which they never recovered."

"Have you ever seen him, and was he happy?" I inquired.

"Only once since have I seen him," replied Davis, "and then he was nursing a baby."

With these words my friend finished his story and his third bottle.

Another Outrage at Salt Lake.—The Vedette of October 2d relates another incident of Mormon outrage. The military authorities would probably look after those Mormons if they thought they would be sustained by our enlightened President—Andrew Johnson:

Monday night about half-past eleven o'clock, as we were walking along Second South Temple street, near our office, in company with the foreman and one compositor from the Vedette establishment, we were suddenly seized by a band of ten or twelve armed and disguised ruffians, who dragged us several blocks to a remote part of the city, where with four cocked revolvers to our heads, we were forced to promise an immediate emigration from Utah, after which we were permitted to go at large without any further injury than a dilapidated suit of clothes and a few more bumps on our cranium than phrenologists can consistently account for. Our foreman was seized at the same time and dragged to the vicinity where we were released, and then set at liberty. Our second companion succeeded in making his escape in the start, to which fortunate fact we must give credit for getting off as easy as we did, as a rescue party was evidently expected by the assailants. The promise to leave the Territory and take Captain Brown and Dr. Williamson with us, was extorted by force, and is therefore, according to our views of moral philosophy, invalid. Hence we shall remain in Utah until we see fit to leave—we shall continue to edit the Vedette just as long as our services are asked by the proprietors. If in the past we have said things which were distasteful to the cowardly midnight ruffians of this city, we shall in the future say things that are still more distasteful. In this matter we shall be governed entirely by our sense of right and justice, and, if our life pays the penalty, we at least have the satisfaction of knowing that it will be no Brassfield case, to die out in a few weeks. While a crowd of ten or twelve armed men glide from an alley at the dead hour of midnight, and crawling up behind, seize us, we do not stand accountable for what is done; but if any of the cowardly dogs who assailed us last Monday night wish any satisfaction for what has appeared in the Vedette they can obtain it by meeting us singly by daylight at any time, place or manner that suits them.

A Snake Charmer Bitten.—The Buffalo Express of the 14th ult., tells how a fool nearly lost his life by handling venomous snakes:

On Tuesday night last Costello, the well known "snake charmer," gave an exhibition of his singular power over these dangerous reptiles on the stage of the American Theater. He handled carelessly, but with the utmost impunity, a large number of freshly-caught and venomous rattlesnakes of a very large size, twisting them around his arms and body, placing a number of them in his bosom and around his neck, and giving undoubted evidence that they were, under ordinary circumstances, perfectly under his command. The performance being over, as Costello was descending the stairs leading from the theater to the saloon, with a number of snakes inside his shirt and around his person, being pressed upon and jostled by the crowd, some of whom, it is to be hoped thoughtlessly, struck the snakes which were around him. This excited their ire, and he suddenly cried out that he was bitten, and entering the saloon took off his shirt, when it was discovered that the venom of the snake had taken effect in the right shoulder, which in a few moments swelled to a frightful size and he commenced frothing at the mouth.

Dr. Bartlett was immediately sent for, and was at once in attendance; the flesh around the wound was cut out, and prompt medical measures employed and the immediate effects of the poison overcome. About two hours afterward the virulence of the venom manifested itself in a very strange manner, the man's mind became disordered, he threw his arms wildly about and was continually singing wild songs, all of which had reference to the snakes. This continued until he was completely exhausted, when he sank into an uneasy slumber. Last night lockjaw superceded, but we learn that he is reported better this morning.

The Territorial Gains of Prussia.—The Kingdom of Prussia, according to the latest census of 1864, numbered 19,304,843. In consequence of its recent brilliant campaign, the Government will receive the following additions:

1. In virtue of the treaty with Austria, the two great Duchies of Schleswig and Holstein, which, in 1864, had a population of 960,996. The people of Northern Schleswig will, however, have a chance to vote on their annexation to Denmark. Thus the number of people annexed to Prussia may be reduced to 800,000.

2. It has been announced that Prussia will annex the whole of the four States, which had, in 1864, the following population: Hanover, 1,923,492, Nassau 468,311, Hesse-Cassel, 745,063, Frankfort 91,189. Together, these States would add to the Prussian monarchy 3,228,046 inhabitants.

3. Hesse-Darmstadt, by a special treaty with Prussia, cedes to the latter power, the Landgraviate of Hesse-Hamburg, which but recently, in consequence of the death of the last childless Landgravate, had been united with Hesse-Darmstadt. It has a population 26,817 inhabitants.

4. Bavaria is let off by victorious Prussia with the cession of the district of Lichtenfels and the town of Caimbach, both in the circle (kreis) of Upper Franconia. They may represent a population of about 30,000 inhabitants.

Altogether, the territory which Prussia, according to the latest accounts, intended to incorporate with its own dominions, has a population about 4,050,000.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be in the possession of everybody in the mining regions. As a preventive of various dangerous diseases to which the gold seeker is liable, it has no superior. While quite palatable even as a beverage, it is speedy and powerful in its effects upon the system. In all cases of Diarrhea, Dysentery, and the prevailing fevers consequent upon exposure, the Bitters will be found invaluable as a corrective. No man should enter upon the exposed life of a miner without being provided with Hostetter's preventive of stomach disease, nor should any of those who are now engaged in the occupation fail to have recourse to the Bitters. Sold by all druggists and dealers everywhere. sep20 HODGE & CALEF, 27 Front St.

Take Notice that Mr. Hendee is on hands at all hours of the day, and can put up as good work and as great a variety of style as any Gallery in this city or elsewhere, and can suit his customers to any style or number of Cards, Ambrotypes, Ferrotypes, SUN PEARLS, and the wonderful STAR Picture, that dazzles the eye to behold it! Prices to suit any person, high or low, rich or poor. Notice to the Tax-Payers of Multnomah County.

Under the provisions of the law now in force, relating to the collection of taxes, all taxes are required to be paid on or before the 1st day of April of each year. If not paid by that time, all real estate with taxes not paid thereon will be immediately advertised and sold for taxes at the expense of the owner thereof; and Personal Property will be levied upon immediately after the expiration of 20 days from the time of my visit to the Precincts for the purpose of collecting Taxes.

I will, therefore, in pursuance of law, meet the Tax Payers of Multnomah county at their respective places of voting, in each precinct, on the following days, to wit:

Sauvie's Island, Friday, November 2d.
St. Johns, Saturday, November 3d.
Powell's Valley, Monday, November 5th.
Sandy, Tuesday, November 6th.
Willamette, Wednesday, November 7th.
Multnomah, Thursday, November 8th.
East Portland, Friday, November 9th.
Fulton, Saturday, November 10th.
North Portland, Monday, November 12th.
Central Portland, Tuesday, November 13th.
South Portland, Hayden's Building, Third street, Wednesday, November 14th.

I will be punctually at each of the above named places at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., and remain until 4 P. M., of each day.

SOMETHING NEW!
THE New LIGHT!
DANFORD'S
Atmospheric Coal Oil Gas Lamp!

Artificial light of some sort, is a universal necessity. A Safe, Cheap and Brilliant one is a Luxury—a luxury only enjoyed heretofore by those who live in large cities where Gas is used. Years of study and much capital have been exhausted in experiments to produce a lamp wherein the ordinary Kerosene or Coal Oil could be used without a chimney, and without unpleasant odor while in use. That fruitful source of expense, trouble and annoyance, the chimney, is in DANFORD'S COAL OIL GAS LAMP avoided; it is the most perfect Lamp and will entirely supersede all other Coal Oil Lamps; it is the cheapest artificial light that can be used, yielding the light of an ordinary six foot Gas burner for less than ½ cent per hour, or double the quantity of light of an ordinary Chimney Lamp, for one third the cost. It will burn when turned down to a taper-light, ten hours for a cent, is free from smoke, can be carried from room to room and the wind will not blow it out. These LAMPS will be on exhibition and for sale at the Music and Art Gallery of Shanahan & Dufrene, corner of Morrison and First streets.
